Items used were a 13" silver plastic charger plate and clock movements both purchased from Michaels. Magenta and green flat craft rhinestones. Black vinyl for the numbers, phrase and roses. Red vinyl for the rose buds. TRANSFER PAPER!! Lessons learned while doing this clock were: Use masking tape before drilling hole for the clock movement. This prevents splintering of the material being drilled through. Transfer paper to get accurate positioning of vinyl phrase. Numbers can be done by hand. It's optional to spray paint the charger plate prior to beginning this clock. The paint job on this plate was not the best in the world but it was not very noticeable. This was a Christmas gift for my daughter who took it to college with her. This was the only picture I had of it. This project took about 2 hours from Cricut cutting time to gluing on the rhinestones. Very easy project to do in any theme of your choice!!!

CRICUT®: WHAT WAS USED

Cricut® Quarter Note Cartridge

Cricut Expression® 2

OTHER MATERIALS NEEDED

- craft glue
- Flat craft rhinestones
- Vinyl
- String or ruler for center marking
- 13" charger plate
- Clock movement
- Drill & Drill bit

STEP 1

Use a ruler and string to mark the center of the plate for the clock movement position. This will also help in determining the position of the 12 - 3 - 6 & 9.
